

Anglican Orthodox Church

Friends,

Some of you on my mailing list are on faculties of divinity, or are otherwise attached to an institution of higher learning. I am informed that there is an article in Christianity Astray (some of you know this as Christianity "Today") by Ben Witherington which addresses at some point my friend, Bart Ehrman. Ben is a classic paradigm for the irredeemably failed modern Evangelical Warfieldianism which has sanctioned the "quest for the Historical Text" as a unique enterprise of the Evangelical agenda, from which we get our "bibles" with their "programed obselecence." I attach to you an essay that reveals just why Witherington's challenge to Ehrman is utterly impotent and without merit. You must read this attached document with much care and perhaps more than once. It is an impossibly dense treatment, but today without brevity one is found spitting into the wind... How I would love to hear back from you on this. Thanks.
